

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

March 2012

The core objective of the National Association of Clean Air (NACA) is to promote the cause of clean air in South Africa. We strive to bring together people in air quality in all sectors – universities, consulting companies, government and industry – to work towards best practice in air quality management. The NACA Journal is one of our key vehicles to do this.

We would like for the NACA Journal to be the journal in South Africa where the most innovative ideas and cutting edge research on air quality are published. All articles in the journal undergo a rigorous peer-review process. Our vision is for the NACA Journal to be scientifically accredited. We encourage you to contribute articles for the next issue.

A big thank you to our journal editor, Dr Gerrit Kornelius, who has been at the helm of the NACA Journal for 30 years now. Thanks to all the companies who advertise in the NACA Journal, and to Beverly Terry for coordinating the advertisements. We hope that you will find the information on air quality-related products and services useful.

Kristy Langerman
NACA Vice President
